Assiniboia Downs to carry Canadian Driving Championship Saturday

Which harness driver will represent Canada at the world driving championships in Norway in May?

That's the question that will be answered in what is expected to be fever-pitched action Assiniboia Downs will broadcast from Fraser Downs race track in B.C. this Saturday afternoon. Eight top Canadian drivers will compete in eight races with every position in the race being awarded a diminishing number of points. Drivers will be fighting tooth-and-nail to even finish sixth or seventh rather than eighth in the races.

The races will also be shown on Shaw cable 87 and MTS 179-180 at 3:15 p.m. and at off-track betting sites.

The drivers will represent different regions of the country. Kelly Hoerdts of Alberta, who once raced in Manitoba, and Bill Davis of B.C will represent Western Canada.

Patrons at the track will have a chance to win $500 cash if they can predict the top five drivers. Pictures and biographies on the eight drivers are listed on the Downs website: assiniboia Downs.com. The world championships will be held in Norway from May 14 to 20.
